

Ilham Lakhal, Associate

Ilham has done her undergraduate degree at the University of Nottingham with a Bachelor in Architecture. Following her graduation exhibition she got offered an internship at Gensler, an architecture and interiors practice in London where she worked on several international projects in the hospitality industry.

After her time at Nottingham she enjoyed a Master of Science course in architecture, urbanism and building sciences at the Delft University of Technology in the Netherlands. With her having a Moroccan and a Dutch background, she has developed a great interest in cultures and especially how that influences design.

Ilham joined the Birmingham team in May 2016.
